

ABSTRACT

Network Controller Having Dynamic Hop Sequence Adjustment in FHSS Networks

A frequency hopping spread spectrum network controller is disclosed which mitigates interference from adjacent frequency hopping spread spectrum networks. The controller is adapted to detect information related to the hop sequence of an adjacent interfering network and alter its own hop sequence based on the information related to the interfering hop sequence.